

KINDRED COMMUNITY DAYS PRESENTS

BARLEY DAYS

Beer & WINE Tasting Event

JULY 31ST | 3PM - 6PM
KINDRED CITY PARK

Celebrate the history of Kindred Barley at our 2nd Annual Beer Tasting event. New this year.... WINE!

CELEBRATE WITH US!

Did you know that barley grown in Kindred played a significant role in barley today? Brewers and beer drinkers have Kindred's own Sam Lykken to thank! "{He} offered some of the barley he'd grown to agronomists at the North Dakota Agricultural College, now North Dakota State University, to use for testing and breeding. When the refined barley became available to upper midwestern farmers during the 1940's it carried the name Kindred...

There were four rust epidemics in the 1950's, but damage to the region's barley crop was negligible. Steffenson, the plant pathologist, explained that what made Kindred special was its "T-gene," which enabled resistance to the wheat stem rust fungus that attacks both wheat and barley. The fungus constantly adapts to its environment and eventually overcomes a plant's defenses. Both decades later, the Kindred T-gene still helps protect upper mid-western barley varieties. "

Cool, huh?
